I'm a game developer, designer, and producer with 6+ years of experience crafting engaging player experiences and bringing interactive worlds to life. And I also hold a Master's in Computer Science and Engineering from Instituto Superior Técnico (https://tecnico.ulisboa.pt/pt/), where I explored game design and player psychology in my thesis on "Digital Biomarker-based Games for Children".

I'm the co-founder of Barking Beagle Studios (https://barkingbeaglestudios.com), and I've shipped commercial titles from concept to release, including the award-winning P.I.G.E.O.N. (which won 1st place, NTF 25 (https://www.fnac.pt/novostalentos) in the Games Category). I've also led educational game development with HPV: Combate Viral in partnership with GameDev Técnico (https://www.instagram.com/gamedevtecnico/) and the Portuguese League on the Fight Against Cancer (https://www.ligacontracancro.pt/).

My favorite video games are story-driven, single-player Action-RPGs, The Witcher 3 being my favorite videogame ever. I love TTRPGs a lot, and I've been designing homebrew content, running campaigns for over 3 years, and I'm even creating my own system.

I'm always eager to tackle new creative challenges and build games that educate, entertain, and inspire.

Member of "GameDev Técnico" (GDT). It's a youth association with the goal of creating an environment that enables non-professional game developers to improve their skills in game development, accelerate their ideas with other enthusiasts, and to participate in projects with established institutions and companies to improve their portfolio. (https://www.instagram.com/gamedevtecnico/). GDT helped me improve my creativity, work with tight and short deadlines and work with different teams with new and different dynamics. With them, I participated in 3 long terms projects and 12 game jams.
